OutNav

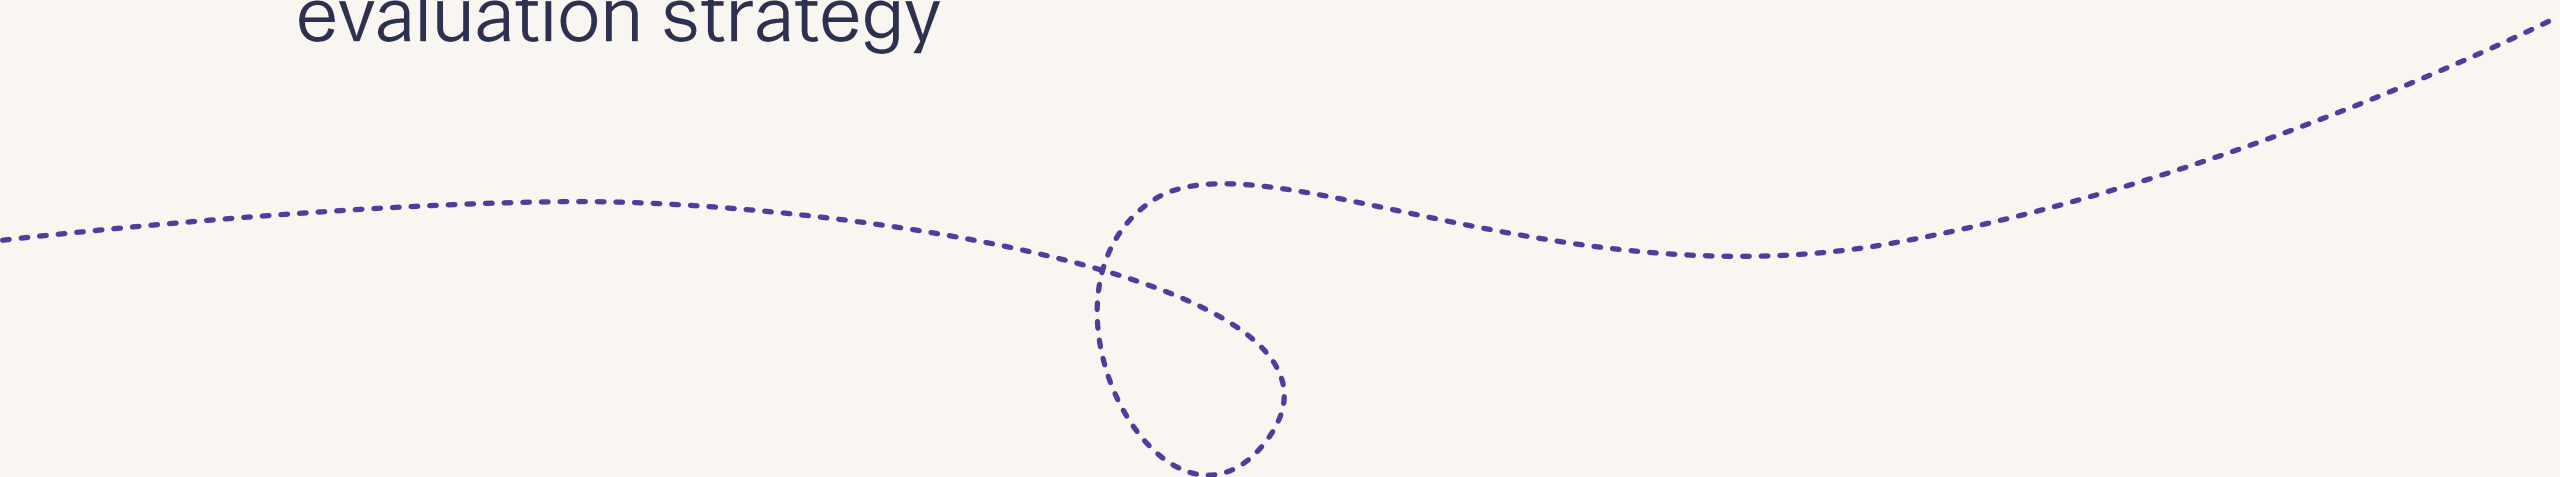

Our approach

- Outcomes that matter are hard to measure
- “we still measure the success of public services by short-term, service-specific measures” (Auditor General, 2021)
- Pragmatic and realistic approaches are required to support the shift to personal outcomes

How we map your contribution to outcomes

Our role in this work

- Commissioned to develop a high level 'outcome map'
 - Inform future work plan for the Programme Board
 - Present to the Programme Board meetings
 - This work could be further developed, e.g. to underpin evaluation strategy

The process

Workshop 1. Understand context of your work

Workshop 2. What success looks like

Workshop 3. Co-produce outcome map

Dissemination and next steps

What we found

Group hopes

- Increased recognition and valuing of the workforce
- Valuing, hearing and responding to lived experience
- Informs planning and prioritising
- That change happens

Group fears

- That nothing changes
- Rules and regulation
- Poor implementation
- The workshop process

Process observations

- High levels of engagement and collaboration
- Positive feedback on process employed
- Covered areas we hoped might come up at the outset
- Tension between principles of ILM and possibility of registration or regulation: My family home becomes a care home
- Good intention is recognised but wariness exists of risks to hard won innovation

Maps and pathways

What we do	Who with	How they feel	What they learn and gain	What they do differently	What difference does this make?
Invest in organisations to support people to understand their options and be a successful employer	Employers	This will help me do my job	PAs are confident and competent in their role	Less turnover of PAs	Employer lives a good, independent, supported life
Provide a range of supports to employers to prepare for and fulfil their roles	Personal Assistants	I feel valued and that I have had opportunities to develop	An understanding of the Independent Living Movement and disability equality	Career progression for PAs
Allocate sufficient budgets to enable employers to offer fair terms and conditions and support professional development of PAs	Employer and Personal Assistant (the unit)	Part of a community of PAs	Knowledge of how to support their employer how they need and want to be assisted	Problems are resolved early	Self-Directed Support works as it is supposed to and more people take it up
Invest in PA owned and led networks to offer support, development, optional registration and access to a union for PAs	Disabled Person's Organisations	Confident in my ability to provide support to my employer	Networks and connections with other PAs	More person centred practices	A mutually beneficial relationship for Employer and PA
Provide PAs with specialist information, advice, support to enable them to understand and negotiate the unique role	PA Networks	I am a supportive employer	Ability to set clear expectations, boundaries in the relationship, and to have difficult conversations	Reciprocity in the relationship / interdependence	Improved wellbeing and reduced stress
Provide support, information, advice and training to employers and their PAs to establish a strong partnership	Trainers (including health workers e.g. OT)	I can get help when I need it (employer)	Ability to act as a good employer, management skills to direct and work with PAs
Promote the role of PAs	Social Workers	We are a team	Employers gain a clear understanding of what their needs are and what role their needs to play within that	Team working
		I feel trusted and valued by my PA	PAs gain the specialist knowledge, confidence and skills to provide high quality support

What we take from this

Concluding observations

- Strong appetite for change and fear of none
- Excellent levels of engagement and commitment
- There was agreement on what good looks like
- Our collaboratively developed map and pathways provide a robust framework for action
- Feedback suggested people felt heard

- The unique relationship: mutuality, reciprocity and inter-dependency was described as the unit
- PAs do though have separate and specific needs
- Hard to know if all voices were equally included
- Opportunities to extend engagement
- Cannot wait for a national care service to resolve

Thank you!
